

The Art of Refinishing

For some, refinishing is a job. For the Standox technician, we believe it's a calling. That's why Standox paint systems were created with this idea in mind: to put great paint in the hands of master craftsmen. Simply stated, Standox is not for just any technician. It's the choice for those who approach vehicle refinishing as an art.

As Europe's leading automotive refinish paint supplier, Standox has been in the market for more than 55 years and is used in more than 80 countries around the world by technicians who we believe have a passion for perfection.

The brilliant performance and consistency of Standox systems is underpinned by exacting standards and quality management aligned with ISO/TS 16949.

We also offer a wide array of innovative color matching tools, exceptional technical training opportunities and a variety of service solutions designed to help you deliver results that will impress your customers and improve your business.
